

Augustus to release their debut EP “The Common Collapse” and announce CD release party at the Biergarten with local rockers Whiskey Autumn.

The Boulder-based folk band Augustus is releasing their debut EP “The Common Collapse”. The 3 piece has been playing a slew of shows up and down the Front Range since springtime and will be celebrating the release of their album in Boulder at the Biergarten Friday, Nov. 14th. Fellow local rockers Whiskey Autumn will be opening the show beginning at 10pm. Whiskey Autumn has just released their debut EP, which the Marquee magazine has given 3.5 stars and called “pure modern Americana”.

Harvested from the most significant American movements and rooted in truly good songwriting, the distinct Boulder based 3 piece folk band Augustus is on the rise. Formed in late 2013, the 3 gentlemen of Augustus recorded their debut 5 song EP at Mad House studios in Leadville, CO. Working with Grammy nominated recording engineer Tim Stroh, the 5 song live recorded EP captures a moment in time and is currently available for review and digital download here.

You can catch up with Augustus at any of the following shows.
